

CLAIMS

1. Sanitary and breathable packaging for food products of the type that includes a container composed of walls of laminate material with at least an insertion opening of the type that is closed with means that are not subsequently reusable, and with at least a weakening line for tearing it and extracting its contents; characterized in that it incorporates holes around it that are suitable in size and number for internal aeration.